The Pioneers

Mary Sue Milliken and Susan Feniger, Southern California

Border Grill, Ciudad

Milliken, who got her start in the 1970s, and Feniger are witness to an encouraging increase in female restaurateurs in the last 10 years. "There's an understanding that women can not only run businesses well, but grow a company," says Feniger. They own what may be the only woman-controlled Las Vegas hotel-restaurant--Border Grill at Mandalay Bay. To stay profitable, they have cut staff and looked for unusual ingredients that cost less, such as lobster leg meat, which costs just $4 per pound.
